

Homebuilding Industry Leaders Selected for Induction into CHF Hall of Fame

January 29, 2015 07:48 PM Eastern Standard Time

SACRAMENTO, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Six outstanding leaders in the homebuilding industry will be inducted into the California Homebuilding Foundation (CHF) 2015 Hall of Fame.

According to CHF Executive Director Terri Brunson, inductees are selected based on career success and reputation, industry participation, philanthropy and community involvement. Inductees will be honored at the CHF Hall of Fame annual gala on June 23 at the Hilton San Diego Bayfront.

2015 inductees:

Joseph D. Davis: Chief investment officer, The New Home Company, Aliso Viejo. Davis directs the company, of which he is a founder, in land acquisition, community planning, land development and land sales. For over 10 years, until 2007, Davis served as president of Irvine Community Development Company, owned by The Irvine Company on The Irvine Ranch, where he oversaw the planning, development and marketing of all master planned communities. During his more than 40-year career, he has held senior management positions at Amfac, Inc., Watt Group Inc., and Chevron Land and Development. Full bio | High-res photo

Howard Englander: Principal, The Englander Company | Shea Homes, Walnut. In 1982, Englander formed The Englander Company, specializing in product research, product development and marketing/merchandising concepts. In 2001, Englander began consulting exclusively for Shea Homes. He oversees all architectural development for the company and participates in land acquisition. Englander also founded Residential Concepts, an independent research and consulting firm, and was vice president of the residential research division for Walker and Lee Real Estate.
